ANNAN: Good afternoon, Ladies and Gentlemen. Let me apologise for keeping you waiting for so long, we had a very constructive and fruitful day and we have come to an understanding on the coalition agreement and we shall meet again at four O'clock and at that point will be ready to sign a document and brief you a bit more about what has been agreed and what went on this morning. I am not in a position to tell you anything further, all that I can say is that we do have an agreement and will meet you at four O'clock this afternoon. Have a good lunch. Thank you.
